

Microlin Bio, Inc. Completes Reverse Merger and Becomes a Publicly Traded Company

December 22, 2015, NEW YORK – Microlin Bio, Inc., a development stage biotechnology company focused on the development of microRNA based therapeutics for cancer, today announced the successful completion of its merger with the American Boarding Company (OTC: AMIB). The combined company will be called Microlin Bio, Inc. and will trade on the OTC Markets under the symbol “AMIB.” The Company has submitted an application to change its trading symbol.

Following this transaction, the Company has a total of 20,000,000 shares outstanding.

“Becoming a public company is a key element of our growth strategy, and the completion of this reverse merger is a significant accomplishment for the Microlin Bio team,” said Joseph Hernandez, Chief Executive Officer and Executive Chairman of Microlin Bio. “We believe that our microRNA-based oncology therapeutics have tremendous potential, and that becoming a publicly traded company affords us the greatest opportunity to position Microlin Bio to capture this large and growing market opportunity.”

Microlin Bio will continue to develop its lead anti-microRNA candidate, anti-miR-21, which has demonstrated positive results in a preclinical model of lung cancer.

About microRNA

MicroRNAs are recently discovered naturally occurring RNA molecules (composed of 19 to 25 nucleotides) that do not encode proteins but instead regulate gene expression and various biological pathways. The improper balance of microRNAs are linked to many diseases, including cancer. As such, replacement or inhibition of deregulated microRNAs may act as a potent means to treat cancers.

About Microlin Bio, Inc.

Microlin Bio, Inc. is a development stage biotechnology company focused primarily on the development of microRNA based therapeutics to treat cancer from technologies licensed from Ohio State University. This includes over 138 pending patent applications and 132 granted patents covering numerous microRNAs. For more information, please visit www.microlinbio.com.
